LEGION SPONSORS SALE OF POPPIES SAT., NOVEMBER 9

As in past years the Didsbury Branch of the Canadian Legion will again sponsor the sale of poppies in town on Saturday, November 9th and Mr. Frank Jackson has been appointed to take charge of the campaign, and has announced the procedure of sale.

Saturday will be "Poppy Tag Day" in town when girls will canvass the business places, streets and homes. Poppies will not be sold, but the individual is asked to give as much as he can for his or her poppy.

Wreaths will be sold to the various business places in town and the price of these is two and four dollars each.

Money derived from the sale of poppies and wreaths does not go to the local branch of the Legion. It goes to provide for disabled veterans of both world wars, who produce the poppies and wreaths in Veterans shops. Your donation for a poppy or wreath, therefore, goes to provide funds for disabled war veterans. For this reason you are urged to "buy" a poppy on Poppy Day.

ENTIRE CONTENTS LOST IN HOUSE FIRE TUESDAY

The dwelling and entire contents of the five-room house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Adam Konechuk and family was destroyed by fire Tuesday morning and the occupants escaped in night attire, while one of the boys was slightly injured, when he leapt to the ground from the second floor, and was taken to hospital.

The fire started when one of the girls was lighting the stove, using kerosene, and within a few minutes the whole house was ablaze. The entire family escaped from the building, but nothing was saved.

The fire alarm was sounded by Joe Dick about 7.30 a.m. but by the time the chemical engine had arrived, along with a number of local residents, nothing could be done to save the house.

The building, situated in the extreme south part of town, on the east side of the old highway, was owned by Fred Folkman of Creston, and some insurance was carried although we understand the contents were not insured.

President of Ford Motor Company Visits Didsbury

Douglas B. Greig of Windsor, Ontario, President of the Ford Motor Company of Canada Ltd., visited Didsbury on Thursday for all of Rorer Barrett, local Ford and Monarch dealer, and Ken Cassidy, Mercury and Lincoln dealer.

Mr. Greig and party have been in Alberta since October 20 in the course of a cross-Canada tour which will take them 25,000 miles before the end of the year. They returned to Windsor on Thursday night by air and will tour British Columbia in the latter part of November. Upon his election as president of the company last April Mr. Greig decided to spend much of his time this year in travelling, with the dual purpose of familiarizing himself with current conditions and to call upon representative dealers.

The Ford president told local dealers that while many strikes had been settled in recent weeks, the shortage of materials would slow up the production of automobiles for some months to come. He saw little hope of a return to full operation of the Windsor plant until next spring.

BACKACHE The Plague of Outdoor Men

The outdoor man, whether he be farmer, truck driver, or railway operator, is often subject to backache. This may be the result of exposure to cold and dampness or the result of strain from the jolting and bumping of the vehicle he rides.

To many people, women as well as men, it would be great to be free of backache—one of the most common and annoying of ailments. And here is how you may be relieved of backache and other symptoms of poisons in the blood.

The treatment suggested is Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills. By reason of their stimulating action on both the liver and kidneys, you have two chances to one of getting relief from your backache by using Dr. Chase's Pills. The torpid liver is aroused to action, the kidneys are stimulated and consequently these organs help to purify the blood of the poisonous impurities which bring pain and aches and tired feelings.

Keep regular and keep well by using Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills. Acts a box.

CANADA WAS ONE of the few fortunate countries which emerged from the war with material resources undamaged by bombs or other weapons of devastation. Consequently, in company with the United States and the South American countries, we have endeavored to contribute as much material as possible to those nations whose fields and factories were damaged or destroyed during the war. Food has been probably our most important export and much emphasis has been placed on the need for Canadian wheat and other food products abroad. Food is undoubtedly of the greatest importance there at the present time, but we are sometimes reminded that they have also a housing problem, much more grave than that which we face here, because of the fact that many thousands of their pre-war homes were partially or totally destroyed.

World Shortage Is Predicted

The task of reconstruction is an enormous one, not only from the point of view of housing, but in the rebuilding of railways and other essential facilities. Much of this reconstruction will depend on an adequate supply of lumber, as do the building programmes now being commenced on this continent. However, a study of the world lumber supply, made during the past year by the United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization, has shown that there is a serious shortage which will be felt soon. It has been found that Europe, the Middle East and the Far East have emerged from the war with greatly depleted lumber supplies, while in the United States lumber stocks have reached an all-time low. Britain's situation in this respect is described as even more serious. Canada on the other hand was found to be one of the few countries whose forestry is "in fair condition".

Production To Be Increased

Reasons for the shortage were given by Sir John Boyd Orr, F.A.O., director-general, as "deforestation, inadequate forest management, failure to develop mature forests, incomplete utilization and insufficient technical personnel." It must also be recognized that during the war the need for wood increased greatly and many more trees were cut than would be the case in normal times. Attention is now being directed to increasing the production of Canadian forests. In this connection the F.A.O. report says: "Large programs of work on Canadian forest improvement and rehabilitation projects are now being started. These are expected to lay the ground work for more orderly management and better protection of the forests in future; at the same time they should provide useful employment for large numbers of people during the period of transition from a wartime to a peacetime economy." From this report, it appears that the lumbering industry may become increasingly important both to Canada and to those countries who will look to her for supplies of this essential product.

WHAT LAXATIVE SHOULD OFFICE WORKERS TAKE?

You don't want harsh remedies when you must work all day in the office or before the public. You need a mild, reliable laxative. For extra mild results take NITRO-GLYCERINE. It is regular, safe, and gives no trouble. It is the only laxative that is completely natural.

Study For Scientists

Giant Spider Found in Buddhist Temple Has Human-Like Face

The newspaper Hsin Sheng Pao said that a spider with a human-like face and as big as an apple, although it was just hatched, had been found in a Buddhist temple near Beijing.

The spider, said Hsin Sheng Pao, has a white face with eyebrows, a nose and a mouth. The rest of it is black and it has eight legs.

A priest found the spider in a pear tree and put it in a jar so scientists could study it.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q—1 am holding some temporary ration coupons with a "Beaver" stamped on them. Are these "Beaver" coupons still valid for the purchase of rationed commodities?

A—Consumers holding unused "Beaver" coupons may, on application to a Local Ration Board, have them exchanged for the newly-issued "Buffalo" coupons. The "Beaver" coupons, unnumbered and bearing a beaver design, which are used for the purchase of meat, sugar, preserves and butter, expire on October 31. "Beaver" coupons for evaporated milk only, will continue to be valid.

Q—I believe that some meat and butter coupons are being declared invalid the end of October. Will you list for me the coupons which will no longer be used after October 31.

A—Meat coupons Q-1 to Q-4 in the No. 5 ration book and M-51 to M-55 in the new book, and butter coupons B-18 to B-21 in the old book and B-26 to B-28 in the new, will become invalid for the purchase of these commodities after October 31.

Q—Have hairnets been removed from the price ceiling regulations? The other day I was able to purchase a hairnet and noticed that the price had gone up several cents.

A—Hairnets are still under the ceiling, but the subsidy on imported hairnets has been removed and the price has therefore increased.

Q—Has the price of turkeys grade "A" been increased?

A—The Prices Board has announced that effective September 5 maximum wholesale prices for Grade "A" turkeys in all parts of Canada will be 2½ cents a pound higher than those in effect during the 1945 packing period—November and December. These prices will apply throughout the year.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Blue Book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices, mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

One of the guests at a negro wedding approached a man who was very well dressed and who appeared somewhat depressed. "You don't smile," asked the guest, "but is you de groom?" "No, sir, I ain't," replied the man with a sorrowful look. "I was eliminated in de semi-finals."

I wish that I could make a rule that every moth must go to school, and learn from some experienced mole.

Two Irishmen were trying to remove a piece of rock lying in the roadway when an old lady passing stopped and watched them. Then she said: "Men, why not try blasting it?"

One of the men looked up and said: "Lady, we have tried every swear word we know, and yet we cannot move it."

"Don't you think a man has more sense after he's married?" "Yes, but it doesn't do him any good then."

The visitor watched a very little girl pull a very big weed from her garden. "You must be pretty strong to pull out such a big weed," he remarked.

"Yes," agreed the youngster, "and don't forget the whole world was pulling on the other side."

Wife (prospecting new home): "How many closets are there, dear?" Husband: "I've counted five."

"That isn't enough. You'll want one for your things, won't you?"

The beautiful young widow simply wouldn't be comforted after two days' mourning although scores offered sympathy plus advice.

Finally the beautiful young widow found voice: "I'm not grievein' bout myself," she said. "It's those seven children I feel sorry for—havin' to be reared by a step-daddy."

"What is a debtor?" "A man who owes money."

"And what is a creditor?" "A man who thinks he's going to get it back."

"Why, sometimes I'm taken for my own daughter." "Nonsense. You don't look old enough to have a daughter so old."

Young and inexperienced father (looking at triplets the nurse had just brought out): "We'll take the one in the middle."

REPEAT that word!

• "Brisk, my friends keep repeating. Brisk, I say to myself. And we all mean Lipton's Tea with that brand, brisk flavour."

There's never a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip when you change to brisk tasting Lipton's Tea, the tea with the lively, spirited flavour... never wishy washy... always fresh, tangy and full-bodied. Change today to brisk tasting Lipton's Tea.

Race Track Cameras

Are Becoming A Commonplace Thing At Races

The camera, in racing, like the automobile in everyday life, apparently is here to stay.

It's a far cry from the days when the decision was left entirely to the vision of the placing judges. Back in 1926 a total of seven dead heats, all for win, was the highest from 1910 through 1934. A dead heat for any of the other placings was unheard of in those years. No less than five different years there was only a single dead heat signal flashed at all tracks and it made page one whenever it happened. All of which tends to prove the keenest pair of eyes can't compete with the camera.

The amount of money lost by bettors from 1910 up until the first camera made its appearance in 1932 staggered the imagination. Horsemen, too, were losers. Instead of sharing in first money, or for any of the other positions as now, they received the next lesser amount, when it was up to the judges.

The camera finish has become as commonplace as the starting gate. Next on the list of mechanical aids for the tracks is the camera which takes a picture of every inch of the race. It helps the stewards. After viewing the film, they can make their decisions.

Nonagenarian Says Water And Eggs Are The Secret For Long Life

OTTAWA — Every nonagenarian has his own secret of long life, and with Sgt. Daniel Byrd Hoskins Power, 93-year-old veteran of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, it's water.

The erect, sprightly, oldest member of this oldest Company, who makes a point of doing everything his fellow members do, says water — and eggs — are the secret of long life.

Aluminum nails, up to four inches in length, now are being produced to help in the nail shortage. Contrary to what one would expect, they are said to have greater shearing strength than steel nails. Australia Has Unique Form Of Service In Organization Which Helps Many Children

(By Gilbert Mant in the magazine Australia)

RECENTLY Australia celebrated the coming-of-age of a movement unique in the world—Legacy—a voluntary organization which cares for dependants of Australians, who died fighting for their country in two world wars. Working closely with Government bodies and other ex-services men's associations, representatives of Legacy have interviewed the dependants of every Australian soldier who has lost his life since the outbreak of war in 1939. The cover is 100 per cent.

The founders of the organization were inspired by the Canadian John McCrae's poem, "In Flanders Fields."

... To you from falling hands we throw

The Torch: be yours to hold it high.

If ye break faith with us who die

We shall not sleep though poppies grow

In Flanders fields.

So it was that Legacy took up McCrae's challenge and a burning torch, fashioned in bronze, is the badge won by its members.

In September, 1923, the first Legacy Club of Australia was formed in Melbourne. Soon after it was the legacy handed on by fallen comrades could best be honored by caring for their dependants. This, today, is the devoted task of Legacy.

Through their efforts, thousands of children have been helped towards a better start in life.

The number of legacies throughout Australia (total 1,520) is small but membership is purposely limited in most States. It is restricted to three persons from any one calling, trade or profession. Every legacy must be an active worker for the cause, prepared to sacrifice a great deal of his leisure to further Legacy's ideals.

Every legacy accepted for membership undertakes to be the personal adviser of at least one child who has lost his soldier parent. He becomes the "Big Brother" and trustee of his ward, and even the mother is obliged to make a written report on his stewardship. Many legacies have four or five wards and are personally responsible for the welfare of the children established as useful citizens.

Finding employment for soldiers' children has been Legacy's main task, but it has not ended there. General welfare work amongst war widows and orphans absorbs much of Legacy's attention and not only advice and encouragement given, but also financial aid.

Its service is not restricted to the "poor." It has given practical advice to widows and well-to-do servicemen who are suddenly left with three or four young children. It has helped to untangle legal problems and pension anomalies. Its ranks include doctors, dentists and lawyers who give their services free of charge to Legacy wards.

Besides the parent club, a Junior Legacy Club for children up to 16 years of age and an Intermediate Legacy Club for teenagers are provided for Legacy wards. The boys and girls meet separately once a week, are given educational talks and take part in sports and physical training.

Girls are taught handiwork, dress-making, personal hygiene and child welfare.

The children are encouraged to form debating, dramatic and literary societies. The boys form cricket and football teams and are taught swimming and lifesaving on the surfing beaches of Eastern Australia. Separate camps are also arranged for boys and girls in the country or at the seaside.

In its 21 years, Legacy found employment for 32,438 boys and girls whose fathers made the supreme sacrifice. This is a remarkable effort in relation to Australia's small population of 7,307,000.

In addition to actual job finding through Legacy, thousands of other children attended physical training and character building classes, or were assisted with their education. Thousands of families were helped after under a welfare scheme.

Human interest stories abound in Legacy's records. Some of its projects have achieved national renown; others have had their mark overseas. Legacy club rooms throughout Australia show proudly on their walls portraits of their hundreds of young men and women who served in World War II.

Human nature being what it is, there have been failures but not many. For Legacy never gives up its unselfish interest in the children it has taken under its wing. Legacies have attended the Children's Court when their wards strayed from grace and pleaded with the magistrate for their release. Twice one lad came before the magistrate but his legacy "father" did not give up. He found the lad a job on a cattle station (ranch) in the Far North of Australia where his ward found redemption. He later served in the Royal Australian Navy.

Five tragic little orphans were taken under the guardianship of one club. All five had been badly neglected and were on the verge of starvation. Legacy gave them immediate care, complete wardrobes and placed them in a children's home. As each reached the age of 14, he was found employment and lodging. The youngest, a baby boy, was adopted into a fine private home through Legacy's efforts.

So the torch of Legacy burns on brightly in Australia, taking new hope into the homes of war widows and guiding the footsteps of Legacy's children into the useful avenues of life—a torch which has become as inspiring a symbol of unselfish service as the Lamp of Florence Nightingale.

Production Is Maintained Prices Will Always Adjust Themselves

Down Boston way, says W. L. Clark, in the Windsor Star, jam is selling at 48 cents for an eight-ounce jar. People go into the store, look at the jam and allow it to keep piling up on the store shelves. Hardly anyone can afford to buy jam at that price, and many of those who could pay the money refuse to do so, thinking they are being high-falooted.

The old law of supply and demand slowly gets in its work. If production could be maintained, prices would soon level off at figures people could and would be willing to pay.

Very Old Copy

Silver Bible Is Treasure Which Is Highly Valued In Sweden

One of Sweden's most beautiful treasures is the Silver Bible, known as the Uppsala, 1,400 years old and of inestimable value for philology. All the living Teutonic languages of today go back to a still older origin than the original Scandinavian languages.

In the 4th century, A.D. Bishop Wulfila translated the Bible into Gothic. In the 6th century when the East Goths were the rulers of Italy, an exceptionally fine copy was made in gold and silver on purple vellum.

Only a person of very high class could afford to have such an exquisite book made and the general belief is that it was the King of the Goths, Theodoric the Great, who had it made, even if there is no definite proof of this. This magnificent copy is the Silver Bible.

With the exception of one or two fragments this is the only continuous text in the Gothic language preserved to this day. It is easy to estimate what it means to philological research to have this book of Gothic language from the 4th century.

Sounds Like Fairy Tale

Shopping Centre Planned For New York Has Just About Everything

A shopper's world of tomorrow to rival the wonders of the original "world of tomorrow" is planned near the old World's Fair site in Flushing, New York.

In this 20-acre "buyers' Utopia," planned to serve as a model for similar centres around the country, the customers will be whisked along underground on moving sidewalks. They'll be cooled in summer, warmed in winter. There will be no crowded streets, no parking problem, no traffic jams.

These comforts—plus just about all the others a foot-sore housewife could dream up—will cost about $50,000,000 and will be incorporated into what architect Lester C. Tichy and real estate developers Webb and Knapp call the largest retail shopping centre in the world. Its 1,500,000 square foot of retail selling space is planned to serve a potential 1,000,000 customers, and yield some $250,000,000 annual sales. The project is expected to pay for itself in 25 years.

An average day at this modernistic centre, planned for middle-income group salaries, might go something like this:

The shopper drives up a ramp, swings past the glass-enclosed second story of a futuristic department store, and parks her car on a covered roof parking area that will accommodate 5,000 automobiles. There she parks junior at an adjoining nursery, where he will be fed, amused and put to bed at the proper hours.

Her first stop probably would be somewhere in the 1,000-foot long unit comprising the department store and a variety of specialty shops and service stores. She might window-shop on the street level on covered sidewalks cooled with exhaust blown from the air-conditioned buildings. She could take in a movie and stage show in a 4,000-seat super de luxe theatre or movie around in the "five and ten." When she's finished, she picks up her car, drives across the roof to a supermarket and farmers' market for her groceries, collects junior and goes on home.

If she has a spare hour, she can go skating, bowl in one of 100 alleys, get some sunshine in a green nursery that will serve as outdoor sample room for florists, or even make a reservation for hubby and herself for that evening at a night club on the premises.

All delivery trucks serving this north shore shopping centre, on which construction will begin late in '47, will load and unload via subterranean driveways to eliminate street level traffic jams. On the first basement level, horizontal escalators will convey customers arriving by bus, railroad or subway past retail displays and on to their destination.

After Seventy-Four Years Mystery Of The Brigantine Mary Celeste Still Unsolved

THE lookout on the Nova Scotian barque Del Gratia, 300 miles west of Gibraltar, spoke the tiny brigantine he saw off the port bow. "Who are you?" asked the signal flags raised on the Del Gratia. There was no reply—no acknowledgement. The brigantine reeled on, under almost full sail, as though her crew were incapable or asleep.

Chief mate Devon took a small boat crew and hoisted the brigantine. In a few minutes he signalled excitedly to the Del Gratia, and Capt. Boyce joined him in another small boat. Thus began the mystery of the Mary Celeste, which has inspired fiction writers no less renowned than Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, and logicians and amateur sleuths, but never yet, 74 years later, has been solved.

The Mary Celeste is the most fire-damaged or maritime disaster, which has written many less cases on its books now than in the days of wooden sailing ships before radio was invented. The abandonment of a modern C-2 freighter like the American Farmer—even for a few hours—makes front page news, and the controversy arising out of salvage ambitions are only expedited day by day. But back in the 1870s a vessel could be abandoned for weeks before anybody even began to wonder where it was.

The Mary Celeste was in perfect condition. Minutest scrutiny never disclosed evidence of fire or threat of fire, or of any passage through rough weather, mutiny or piracy or pestilence. Nobody ever learned why she was abandoned by her master, or his wife and daughter and five-man crew; or how they got off; or where they went, or what became of them.

The Mary Celeste was a Nova Scotia-built half-breed, 98 feet long, 25 feet wide, of 206-ton deadweight—smaller than a present-day PC boat. Yet Capt. Benjamin S. Briggs didn't hesitate about taking his wife and seven-year-old daughter along when he set sail from New York Nov. 7, 1872, carrying 1,700 barrels of alcohol to Genoa to fortify Italian wines.

There are many differing versions as to exactly what Chief Mate Devon did and about the Mary Celeste. The consensus seems to be that everything was in perfect condition except that there was no human being aboard.

There was no human being aboard. She was under full sail except that her top gallant yard was down on the cap and her gaff topset clewed down, as though an attempt to shorten sail had been abandoned in its midst.

All bunks were made neatly, except that a pillow in the captain's cabin was crushed under the weight of his daughter's head. Remains of an almost-eaten breakfast were on the table. The captain's watch hung above his bunk. His wife's sewing machine was in the messroom. On the mate's desk was a half-written letter to "Fanny, my dear wife."

There was plenty of food and water. Jewelry and valuable trinkets, and the cash box, were untouched. The alcohol cargo appeared intact. Hull and masts were undamaged. The seamen's chests were dry and undamaged, undereaching hung on a drying line, razors weren't rusted.

It's up to you whether to believe the most common version—that the ship's boat hung on its davits unused and unswung, or that the yawl was gone and its davits swung out with dangling ropes. The only other small craft, the long boat, had been smashed when cargo was loading, and never replaced.

In any event, the Del Gratia put a prize crew aboard, sailed the Mary Celeste to Gibraltar, and after two thorough investigations collected about $8,500 prize money on the appraised value of $5,700 for the brigantine and $37,700 for her cargo.

At least two old men years after, came to have been members of the Mary Celeste's crew and gave differing versions of what happened, but of which were so fishy-appearing, on known facts, that they seem unworthy of repetition. Beyond that, there never has been even the faintest hint other than attempts to build on logical theory—as to what caused Capt. Briggs's family and his crew to disappear, or how they left the Mary Celeste, or whatever became of any of them.

The Mary Celeste was a perfectly good ship, but she got a bad name. Nobody cared to own her and nobody wanted to sail her. She was sold and used for a time in what were suspected as extra-legal activities, until finally she was wrecked under mysterious circumstances, which caused her new owner and captain to be tried for insurance fraud.

Back around the turn of the century the Nova Scotia was speckled with derelicts. The U.S. Hydrographic Office counted 97 reported in that area in one five-year period. But most of them involved no major mystery and no particular controversy. If like modern ships, they had had radio, their stories would have been commonplace.

They did, however, create major navigational hazards because many of them remained afloat for years.

drifting thousands of miles, often in principal traffic lanes.

The schooner W. L. White, for example, travelled 6,800 miles in 310 days after she was abandoned in the blizzards of March, 1888.

Second Anniversary

Ceremony Marking Battle Of Arrhen Attended By Thousands Of Hollanders

ARRHEN.—One hundred survivors of the British 1st Airborne Division, and 100 relatives of those who fell with that force, gathered in the ruins of a schoolhouse to mark the second anniversary of the Battle of Arrhen, in which the famous "Red Devils" held out for four days against tremendous odds.

With them were Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, Dutch cabinet ministers and service chiefs. Thousands of Hollanders crowded the Rhine bridge embankment, near where the last survivors of the Airborne Division finally ceased resistance.

From the ruins the Queen led the pilgrimage on foot through crowded streets to a monument erected by the Dutch on the bridge, where she placed a wreath in the day's final official ceremony.

Earlier the 200 pilgrims from Britain visited Arrhen cemetery where relatives sought out the graves of next-of-kin among the 2,000 metal crosses.

School children who have tended the graves since the cemetery was opened a year ago placed a wreath by each cross.

Fur Pelts

Figures Show There Is No Shortage This Season

OTTAWA.—Canadian women worried about their chances for a new fur coat this year will be glad to learn there is no shortage of fur pelts. Canadian fur farms in the fiscal year 1946-47 season will market about 96,200 standard silver fox, 34,200 new type fox, 303,700 standard mink and 15,300 new type mink pelts, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates.

At the beginning of this year there were about 94,000 standard and new type foxes on farms, but fox pups have increased this total by about 162,500. Similarly standard and new type mink have increased from 173,000 at the beginning of the year to 350,000.

ANCIENT CIGARETTE LIGHTER—Here's the great-grandfather of the pocket cigarette lighter. It was made in Germany about 1825 based on the invention of a French scientist who rigged up a hydrogen gas generator fired by a fox tail stroked on a resin plate. It is the top item in a collection of lighters, said to be the most valuable in North America, owned by a German radio engineer, Curt Brochardt, who escaped to the continent before Pearl Harbor. He now lives in Toronto, Canada. The gimmick was displayed at the opening of a $2,000,000 tobacco processing plant at Aylmer, Ont., an area which now grows enough "blue" or cigarette type tobacco to satisfy the Canadian needs. Young British Schoolboy Hopes His Racing Car Will Be Winner

A 14-year-old British schoolboy, Alexander Watson, is building a model racing car with which he hopes to beat the present British model car speed record. He is building the car in the collar of his home, which is laid out with miniature roads. Alexander is the youngest member of the British Model Car Club.

The club holds monthly meetings at an airfield in Bedfordshire, England. That is a hundred miles from Alexander's home but he bicycles there to watch the contests. At present the United Kingdom record is a speed of 74.3 miles per hour.

PERMANENT MEMORIAL

The Battle of Britain will have a permanent memorial in Westminster Abbey. A memorial of Britain memorial chapel will be completed next summer at the end of the Henry VII chapel, now being repaired.

THE COMMUNITY CIVIC CENTRE AUDITORIUM

At meetings held at various times during the past year the construction of a Community Centre as a memorial for our boys and girls who paid the supreme sacrifice was discussed and this spring all organizations joined hands and decided to work towards such a centre.

The Lions Club as their part of the centre, is to provide a swimming pool and now have raised a large sum of money for the project.

The Didsbury Branch of the Canadian Legion has undertaken the task of raising money for the auditorium, and on November 11th the campaign for funds will open with a concert and dance in the Opera Theatre. From this date onward, for three or four weeks, Legion members will be accepting cash donations for the auditorium fund, and we can make no better recommendation of the project than to urge all who possibly can do so to donate generously to the cause.

It must be admitted that Didsbury needs an auditorium for meetings and public functions. All will agree to this, but the question is "How large a hall can we afford?" That question can only be answered individually, by the amount of your subscription to the Memorial Auditorium Fund.

WESTCOTT NEWS NOTES

Mrs. Ethel Konechny was a week-end visitor in Calgary where she attended the teachers' convention. The Halloween pranksters were really up to tricks last Thursday night even to making use of the telephone to pull a gag or two. According to the kiddies, they had a super time as the Westcott folks really shelled out with treats.

We are pleased to see Ellen and Ruby Dagford back at school again.

The many friends of Mrs. Clarence Larson will be pleased to hear that she somewhat improved in health after being taken to hospital again a week ago by her kind neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Klinek.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Artman upon the arrival of a daughter on Monday of this week.

Mr. John Stevenson of Sundre was a Westcott visitor on Sunday last, bringing Mr. John Jacobson, who is employed at Sundre, home for the day.

We hear little Gloria Stevenson has been quite ill again and is under the care of the doctor.

Another couple of days should see the threshing and combining completed in this district. Many outfits worked Sunday and a few combines kept going all through the night, taking advantage of the fine weather which has been so kindly bestowed upon us.

Teachers On The Spot Changed Quickly

Children Permitted To Make Reports Of Their Teachers

LONDON.—Children at a Hampton-astead school in London have realized a dream long cherished by school children throughout the world—they are permitted to make end-of-term reports on their teachers.

Their reports are fully considered and acted upon by British school authorities.

Scholars and teachers in this school are known by their Christian names and there is no "Sir" or "Miss". If several pupils complain in their reports that "John gives too much dictation," the instructor is asked to improve his lessons.

The school is Burgess Hill. There is no headmaster. Responsibilities are shared and all staff teachers, cooks, housekeepers and cleaners are paid same salary, approximately $750 a year.

Naturally, the teachers make term-end reports on the children, but it is hard to know who learns the most from whom—the teachers or the children.

The three R's are compulsory, but otherwise children choose their own lessons.

Democracy In Arctic

Greenland Wants To Have Governor

And Council Elected By People

An independent democracy is in the making beyond the Arctic Circle, says the Scandinavian News.

Greenland, the world's largest island in which less than 20,000 persons live along the coastline of a territory which comprises nearly 800,000 square miles and Denmark's only remaining colony, is approaching the age of majority.

The Greenlanders now want to have only one governor and one central council to be elected directly by the people. This would have the effect of diminishing influence of the Danish officials.

SALES MUCH HIGHER

Canadians Spent More Of Wartime Savings During August This Year

Thirty households, who saved their pin money during the war, spent a lot of it last August on radios and household goods, a report by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has disclosed.

An analysis of department store sales in Canada during that month showed a 24 per cent. rise over July, and a 27 per cent. increase compared with the corresponding month last year.

Rural households, too, went shopping during August, the report showed. However, those in Western Canada spent more money than the Easterners.

In country general stores the margin of increase in sales was somewhat wider in Western than in Eastern Canada. In Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia the increases were more than 20 per cent. Manitoba stores had a sales gain of 17 per cent.

Sales in Ontario's country general stores were 19 per cent. higher. Quebec and the Maritime Provinces marked gains of 14 and 15 per cent. respectively.

London's Underground

Trains Are Painted Vivid Red And Interior Is Bright Again

Londoners like to think their underground railway system one of the transportation world's wonders but in the stress of war and the early peace it became as dingy and unattractive as a utility work dress.

Now the trains that scuttle about the network of underground lines beneath the metropolis and take surprisingly long surface jaunts into the green countryside, are flamboyantly red again, the stations have been repainted, and the seats cover no longer look like old potato sacks but have bright designs.

The London Passenger Transport Board, with the task of moving nearly 10,000,000 passengers daily, thus demonstrates it is more alert than the firms who purchase space for their advertising cards on the walls of underground coaches; often these yellowed cards are in contrast to shiny walls and often they advertise products to be available "after the war".

DOING BIG JOB

House In London Where Disraeli Lived Is Offered For Sale

LONDON.—The last home of Disraeli, famous Victorian British prime minister, now no more than an empty shell—has been placed on sale.

Outside the house at No. 19 Curzon street crowds waited in 1881 for the news of the passing of one of the greatest figures of Victorian England.

The Curzon street mansion was only one of Disraeli's London homes. After the death of his wife in 1875, he lived in No. 2 Whitehall Gardens and prior to that he lived in his wife's home at 93 Park Lane.

SOME of the folks at Gloveville were certain that a miracle had happened to Miss Sadie. Others claimed that she had taken some wonderful medicine. Still others thought the old man that stayed only one night at her house was a famous doctor travelling in disguise.

Every one had his own private opinion about what cured Miss Sadie and got her out of the bed in which she had spent most of her time for the past three years. But none of them guessed the truth.

When Miss Sadie—her real name was Mrs. Horace Manners—lost her husband and two children in the automobile wreck she lost all her faith and desire to live. Though most people didn't know it her illness was largely mental. She didn't want to get well.

"There's nothing left for me," she'd said. "When Horace and the children were taken from me life lost its meaning. I didn't care to live, though I must until I die."

And the bitterness of her mind seemed to overtake her body leaving her no strength. She made no effort to rebuild her life, to regain her strength. A hired man who lived on the place and cooked for her kept up the little portion of the farm that she retained, but she took no interest in it.

Her old friends who stopped coming to see her could only be blamed. It was obvious in her grief and loss of faith that she did not want to see her were the curious ones who carried away strange tales about how she kept to her bed, spoke crossly and glared at them like they were demons.

Slowly people began to suspect she was going crazy.

Then one day when the hired man had gone to town and she was alone, there appeared at her door an old man. He was dressed in tattered clothes and he had not shaved for many days. His knock on the door was feeble and had she been sleeping she would not have heard it.

The window by her bed opened on to the front porch and she could see him there knocking. She was not frightened, because he was old and feeble looking. But she was irritated that he should disturb her.

"What is it?" she asked crossly through the half open window.

"I am hungry," said the old man, "and very tired. If you will only give me a little food and let me rest."

She felt angrier than before. A beggar at her doorstep disturbing her by asking for food instead of work.

"Go on away from here," she said, waving him off with her hand. "Go on! Get off my porch and property!" There was a pitiful look in the old man's eyes as though the world had disowned him. As he turned to leave he opened his thin grey lips then seemed to decide against it. He walked slowly back across the porch and as he reached the steps he suddenly collapsed and rolled down them to the walk.

Inside the house Miss Sadie saw the little old man as he fell to the ground and her heart rose in her throat. For the first time she forgot her own loneliness and bitterness. A new strength seemed to rise in her. For only a minute she hesitated. Then she grabbed her robe, slipped quickly into her shoes and started for the door. Her movements were slow at first but as she thought of the little old man she forgot her weakness and moved rapidly to the yard.

He was unconscious when she reached him and breathing heavily. She lifted his small head from the hard walk and compassion welled her heart. She had done this to him by ordering him away.

She lifted his body in her arms. Even though he was frail, she was weak and stumbled as she went toward the house with him.

"Poor little old man," she repeated over and over.

His only answer was heavy breathing as though he were having difficulty getting his breath.

Later when she had undressed him and put his withered body between clean white sheets, she hurried to the kitchen to prepare some chicken broth. It was the first time in three years that she had fixed food and she found pleasure in it. When she returned with a bowl of the steaming beverage he had regained consciousness. She smiled at him and moved swiftly to his side.

"There now," she said, "you're going to be all right. You must not have eaten in a long while. This broth will fix you up."

"No," he said in a small voice. "No I haven't eaten in a long time. I did not want to beg—but—" His voice faded away as he tried to sit up and she saw it was too much for him.

"No more talking," she said. "And I'm going to feed you personally."

For the rest of the day she nursed the old man finding comfort in having some one to tend to. But when night fell she knew he was sicker than she had thought. She knew he would not live. His heart was weak with age.

All night she sat up with him talking so that he would not feel alone. She told him all about her youth and her husband and her children and he comforted him. And as she spoke she felt the burden of bitterness lift from her heart as it had not done in three years.

At dawn, just before the old man died he called her close and spoke in a whisper so low that she could scarcely hear him.

"I believe that you are the good Samaritan whom I have never before found," he said. "I know I am dying but I am doing so with renewed hope and happiness. May you make others as happy as you have made me, my angel of mercy."

Then he died with her holding his hand and the sadness she felt was mingled with a happiness of renewed hope and faith.

Miss Sadie was well.

JUST AS GOOD

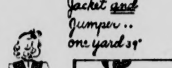

An old woman married a man even older than herself. One day she met the rector, who inquired why she had married again, and if she had not given up her occupation of washing. "Oh, no sir," she said, pointing to her husband, who was wheezing a hoarse a few paces away. "If I hadn't married, I'd 'ad to 'ave washed a donkey."

Exports Increasing

High Quality Of English-Grown Orchids Is Creating Large Market

The first English orchids to be purchased by Australia since the war were despatched from the Port of London recently. United Kingdom growers are rapidly becoming the leading exporters of orchids in the world. At present they are being inundated with a steady flow of overseas orders, especially from the U.S. One spectacular order, placed by U.S.A. businessman earlier this year, was for 2,000 plants valued at £20,000. The steady increase in exports of English orchids is attributed by growers to the high quality and hardness of home-grown varieties. A consignment of orchids often takes years to collect as the time taken to grow a successful blooming hybrid is considerable.

THEY KNOW CANADA

Our Governors General Always Get Well Acquainted With This Dominion

High on the list of those who have a deep affection for Canada are a group of men, past and present, who have been merely temporary residents in this Dominion. These are our Governors General. Most of them, after a short time here, have become the most enthusiastic boosters for this country.

The reason, of course, is obvious. The Governors General see and know Canada. It is part of their job to travel across the Dominion, not once but several times during their terms of office. Their appreciation of our many advantages rests on intelligent familiarity with them.

Not everyone, of course, can see so much of the country, but too many of our citizens neglect opportunities to familiarize themselves even with the parts they could easily visit. Others, with the means to travel quite as extensively as the Governors General, prefer to spend their time and money in other climes. It is too bad that more of our people are not put under an obligation similar to that imposed on the Viceroy to get about in their native land.—Windsor Star.

Farm Wages Higher

Dominion Bureau Of Statistics Gives Average Rates

OTTAWA.—New increases in average farm wage rates were reported by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The average rates for Canada in August were $4.04 a day and $75.28 a month with board as compared with rates of $3.55 a day and $71.68 a month reported at Aug. 15, 1945. Without board, the average rates were $4.05 a day and $100.62 a month as against $4.50 and $67.22, respectively, last year.

For day help, there were increases in all provinces except Nova Scotia, the most pronounced increases being in the western provinces. Saskatchewan had the highest rate of all provinces for help without board at $5.69, followed by Manitoba at $5.66, British Columbia at $5.26 and Alberta at $5.17.

Rates in the eastern provinces ranged down from $4.55 in Ontario to $3.38 in Prince Edward Island. Highest rates for help with board were $4.71 in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, followed by $4.42 in British Columbia, $4.37 in Alberta, $3.62 in Ontario, $3.56 in New Brunswick, $3.46 in Quebec, $3.24 in Nova Scotia and $2.62 in Prince Edward Island.

Wage rates per month by provinces ranged from a high of $62.00 to a low of $55.76 for help with board, and from $111.12 to $77.06 for help without board in Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island.

The Untouchables

Are Not Allowed To Associate With Even Low Caste Hindus

In India, according to an ancient legend, Hindus are descended from Brahma, the creator. The Brahmins or highest caste rose from his mouth, the Kshatriyas from his shoulders, the Vaishyas from his thighs, and the Sudras or lowest caste from his feet. The legend omits the fifth group of Hindus, India's 70,000,000 Untouchables. These are descended from the Dravidians who inhabited southern India and became converted to Hinduism. Because the new converts were of a different darker-skinned race they were regarded as an inferior people with whom Hindus were forbidden to mingle. Today, in most sections of India, Untouchables are not permitted to enter schools or temples, they can work at only the most menial of jobs.

Recently a bill to abolish some of the social indignities was introduced into the Bombay Province Legislature. It would penalize anyone who prevented Untouchables from using public roads, conveyances or public institutions.

An income tax was imposed in Great Britain in 1799 in place of the war against Napoleon.

LITTLE DRAMAS OF HOME LIFE

Pop was writing the household cheques ... and suddenly blew his top!

It was as quick as that! All was serene in the household, with the Male Parent working in his den, the rest of the family scattered around. Then, all of a sudden, Pop exploded like a landmine.

What had happened to Pop? — Was it the hills? — no, they came every month. Was it the kids? — no, Pop usually took them in his stride. Was it — yes, this sounds like it — a caffeine hang-over? For Pop had been going it rather strong for tea and coffee recently.

Watch your nerves! Drink Postum — for its grand, rewarding flavor — and because it's the ideal way to stop drinking tea and coffee. Contains no caffeine to over-stimulate and upset you. Convenient — made right in the cup — economical — costs less than a cent a serving.

RUTHERFORD, N.J., Oct. 17. (AP) — Steve said he had "a good response" to his request contained in a sermon to his congregation for a tip on where to buy black market sugar.

Mr. Steve, pastor of Emmanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church, told his parishioners the regulation of sugar "is so lopsided that it multiplies the difference whether I buy sugar on the black market or legally."

If there is anyone who knows where I can get black market sugar," the pastor asked, "let me know."
